About Victory Recovery Homes

VRH is a structured recovery program for men seeking freedom from addiction while rebuilding their lives after navigating life challenges. Without structure, accountability, and genuine community, the road back from addiction after transitioning from incarceration or rehabilitation can be nearly impossible.

VRH is a DDAP-certified recovery residence serving adult men who are rebuilding their lives after addiction and life hurdles. Up to 15 men receive structured housing, peer accountability, employment support, and connection to clinical services, all within a family-style environment in Allentown, PA.

A Program Built on More Than Housing

VRH is a structured, 9- to 12-month addiction recovery program built around the belief that lasting change requires more than a roof. Residents progress through three progressive levels to increasing independence and responsibility. They establish employment, complete community service, participate in recovery meetings, develop life skills, and contribute to the household with their peers. VRH is rooted in accountability, community, and faith, for men of all backgrounds serious about lasting change. We offer support for Spanish-speaking individuals and place a strong emphasis on helping restore and reunite families whenever possible. We have and continue to proudly serve veterans!

Real Results in a High-Need Population

Since 2018, VRH has served more than 80 men in recovery from addiction. 75% of graduates achieve lasting recovery, steady employment, and independent housing. Many have even returned to serve as house managers and mentors, giving back to the next generation of men coming in through the door.

Why Your Support Matters

The men VRH serves face addiction with compounding barriers: criminal records, limited work history, fractured family ties, and mental health challenges. With structured support during a critical transition, many can and do break these cycles that might otherwise span generations. Your sponsorship directly sustains the housing, programming, and daily operations that strengthen individuals and communities.
